Language Of My Enemy From MTI, Oct. 12

MTI Home Video has captured the domestic DVD distribution rights to writer/director Mitch Davis' Middle East romantic-thriller, The Language of My Enemy. The street is Oct. 12 for this film that was shot on location in Israel, including Jerusalem.

Romi Meir (Eion Bailey), who speaks fluent Arabic, English and Hebrew, flies to Jerusalem to bury his father, the victim of a terrorist bomber. Before you can say shalom, he's recruited for a revenge mission in Palestine, where — against all odds — he meets a young doctor (Linda Hardy) who just may be his soul mate. Can love survive on the deadly streets of Ramallah?
