

THE ICE QUEEN WILL SEND CHILLS UP YOUR SPINE WHEN MTI UNLEASHES HER ON DVD SEPTEMBER 27!

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Miami, Florida — (July 20, 2005) MTI Home Video, the leading independent home entertainment studio, along with their Studio Partner, Artist View Entertainment, and production partner Edgewood Studios, will release their in-house production, the horror film ICE QUEEN, on September 27 (prebook: September 8, 2005). She's just awoken from a few centuries' old nap, and this cold-hearted bitch is just lookin' for a few warm bodies!

Shot on location in Vermont, the film begins when a plane carrying the archeological find of the century (a female humanoid from the Ice Age that was sealed in a tomb of amber deep in the Amazon) crashes into the peaks of the snow-covered Killington Mountain range, causing a disastrously large avalanche. The resort below is destroyed and all are trapped inside underneath mountains of snow. Even worse, something deadly has been unleashed and is trapped with them. The Ice Queen! Awakened by the cold, she is gruesomely deformed, viciously powerful, and terrifyingly bloodthirsty. One by one, the surviving staff begins to meet a horrible fate. As the temperature drops, the Queen becomes stronger and her victims weaker. With little air left, and the resort collapsing around them, those remaining must make a deadly gamble... face the Ice Queen, or succumb to certain death!

The frightening tale was penned by Neil Kinsella (Frozen Impact, Cyberkidz), Peter Beckwith (Landslide, Killer Flood), and David Williams, with Kinsella also directing. The film was produced by David Giancola (Arachnia, The Newcomers) and Peter Beckwith. The film stars Ami Veevers-Chorlton (Die Another Day), Harmon Walsh, Noelle Reno, and Jennifer Hill (You Belong to Me, The Circle).

The DVD release will be shown in full screen format, with audio commentary, behind the scenes clips, interactive menus, scene selection, optional Spanish subtitles and trailers.
